STUDENTS TOGETHER OPPOSING PREJUDICE

The 5th Annual STOP Workshop

Friday, January 16, 2009

Sarazen Student Union

8 a.m. – 2 p.m

One hundred-ninety students from Capital Region Middle Schools and High Schools participated in a violence prevention workshop sponsored by the Martin Luther King, Jr. and Coretta Scott King Lecture Series. Students were involved in activities, workshops, discussions and action planning around issues of tolerance and respect.

Students attended this conference to work actively in groups with adult leaders to discuss ways to become more involved and to help extinguish intolerance, bullying, gangs and discrimination.

The following schools sent groups of students to the workshop:

Albany Academies
Boght Hills Elementary School
Chatham High School
Goff Middle School
Guilderland High School
Hoosick Falls Central School
Knox Junior High School
Latham Ridge Elementary School
Mechanicville High School
Mohonasen High School
New Lebanon Junior-Senior High School
Northville Central School
Notre-Dame Bishop Gibbons High School
Schalmont High School
Schenectady High School
Shenendehowa High School
Waterford-Halfmoon School

The STOP Workshop was organized by the World of Difference™ and it was coordinated by Kate Jackett and Lorrain Tiven, with logistical support from Peter Ellard and Kayla Snow.

For information on participating in next year's workshop, please e-mail Kayla Snow at ksnow@siena.edu.

Special thanks for the support of Ray Newkirk and Christy D'Ambrosio.

STUDENT COURAGE AWARDS

The Martin Luther King, Jr., and Coretta Scott King Lecture Series on Race and Nonviolent Social Change Advisory Board announces the recipients of the 2009 Student Courage Award.

The Courage Award was established to recognize young people from grades 6-12 in the Capital Region, who have demonstrated personal courage by taking positive action against racism, prejudice, bias-related violence and other forms of intolerance in their respective communities. The award was developed in response to an increase in intolerance, bullying, gangs and racial discrimination among youth in the Capital Region. Schools, youth groups, and religious organizations from the region were contacted to submit nominations for the award. A Selection Committee comprised of interested government, business and civic leaders selected the winners based on the contributions of the nominees in addressing intolerance in any form.

First-place goes to Gabriella Marsh, a junior from Schenectady, New York, who attends Schalmont High School. Gabriella is a member of the Diversity Club and took the initiative to become a study circles facilitator for the Schenectady County Embraces Diversity (SCED) program. In addition to her own participation, Gabriella has inspired other students to get involved. She is a true leader promoting issues of tolerance and diversity in her school.

The runner up is Aaron Sedgwick, an eighth-grader from New Lebanon, New York, who attends New Lebanon Junior-Senior High School. Aaron is a quiet leader who takes action when a wrong or unjust practice is being committed against another student. He is described as a big brother to many of his classmates especially when the class works on project activities. He keeps a watchful eye on all and provides assistance to many. In one instance last year, Aaron stood up to a bully at his school and stopped the harassment of a fellow student. This non-violent intervention demonstrates Aaron's courage and leadership in his community.

Third-place goes to Paige Tutt, a senior from East Greenbush, New York, who attends Columbia High School. Paige has followed a rigorous academic program combined with an involvement in extra-curricular activities that reflects true peer leadership, and a strong desire to improve her school and community. Paige engages others to be their best with a conviction that inspires. Her work has been recognized by the YMCA, the State University of New York and Albany Medical College.

We are especially thankful to Alice P. Green, Ph.D. and Charles L. Touhey for their annual sponsorship of the Student Courage Award.

WE SHALL OVERCOME

We shall overcome
We shall overcome
We shall overcome some day

Chorus:

Oh deep in my heart
I do believe
We shall overcome some day

We'll walk hand in hand
We'll walk hand in hand
We'll walk hand in hand some day

Chorus

We shall all be free
We shall all be free
We shall all be free some day

Chorus

We are not afraid
We are not afraid
We are not afraid today

Chorus

We are not alone
We are not alone
We are not alone today

Chorus

The whole wide world around
The whole wide world around
The whole wide world around some day

Chorus

We shall overcome
We shall overcome
We shall overcome some day

Chorus

SCULPTOR PATRICK MORELLI TALKS ART WITH STUDENTS

By Cayla Consaga '08

Sculptor and architectural designer Patrick Morelli visited the Siena College campus this fall to talk with students about his art, as well as choosing art as a career. Morelli has created many works of art, from bronze sculptures to digital images. But what he puts the most effort into are memorials, monuments and other designs for public places that have some emotional or nostalgic effect on its audience.

One of Morelli's most famous works is "Behold," a bronze statue of an African-American man offering his newborn son up to the heavens. The statue was unveiled by Coretta Scott King and is housed at the Martin Luther King, Jr. National Historic Site and Preservation District; a cast of it will be on display during this year's Martin Luther King, Jr. and Coretta Scott King Lecture on Race and Nonviolent Social Change.

Another famous work of Morelli's is "Remembrance and Rebirth," a September 11 memorial located at Eagle Rock Reservation in New Jersey that overlooks the former site of the Twin Towers of the World Trade Center in New York City.

The sculpture on display is a bronze cast of part of the larger piece titled "Behold" by sculptor and architectural designer Patrick Morelli.
